SAMGÖNGUSAFNID Í SKÓGUM

Samgöngusafnið í Skógum var opnað í nýju sýningarhúsi þann 20. júlí árið 2002. Hér birtist þróun samganga og tækni á Íslandi á 19. og 20. öld. Húsverk samgöngusafnsins er söfnun, varðveisla og sýning muna og minja um þróun samganga í landinu, allt frá ferðalögum á hestum til rafrænna samskipta dagsins í dag.

Helstu samstarfsaðilar safnsins sem jafnframt sýna safngripri sína hér eru Þjóðminjasafn Íslands, Vegagerðin, Islandspóstur, Milla, Landhelgisgæslan, Rarik, Síminn og Slysavarnafélagið Landsþjörg, auk merklegra gripa frá Skógasafni og Talstöðvasafni Sigga Harðar.

Í Samgöngusafninu er vefslun fyrir ferðamenn og veitingastaðurinn Skógakaffi. Samgöngusafnið í Skógum er hluti af Byggingasafni Rangáeinga og Vestur-Skattfellinga, sem er eitt stærsta og mest sötta safn á landinu.

MUSEUM OF TRANSPORT AND COMMUNICATION

The Museum of Transport and Communication in Skógar was opened July 20th 2002 in a new exhibition hall. Here is on display the history and evolution of transport, communication and technology in Iceland in the 19th and 20th centuries, from the age of the working horse to the digital communication of today. The museum's aim is to collect, preserve and exhibit artifacts that tell this story.

The museums main sponsors who exhibit their artifacts here are The National Museum of Iceland, The Roadworks, Icelandic Mail, Icelandic Coast Guard, RARIK Electric Network, Milla, Síminn Telephone and Landsþjörg SAR, plus many interesting exhibits from The Skógar Museum.

The exhibition hall has an excellent souvenir shop and the Skógakaffi Café. The Museum of Transport and Communication is part of The Skógar Regional Museum which is among the largest and most popular museums in Iceland.
